This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. (Accurate tidings from Pennsylvania in Northern America, which, at solicitation of good friends, regarding 103 propounded questions, upon his departure from Germany to the above country, anno 1702, are given in print, by Daniel Falckner, Professor, Citizen and Pilgrim in that very place.)

In 1905 an amplified reprint of this rare tract was made. It was edited by J. F. Sachse and the title was: "Falckner's Curieuse Nachricht von Pennsylvania. The Book that stimulated the great German Emigration to Pennsylvania in the Early Years of the Eighteenth Century. A Reprint of the edition of 1702, amplified with the Text of the Original Manuscript in the Halle Archives, Together with an Introduction and English Translation of the Complete Work. Philadelphia: Printed for the Author, 1905." (New Era Print, Lancaster.)

There is a map of the 1704 edition. This is a Reprint from Vol. 14 of Trans. Pennsylvania-German Society. The edition was of 250.

Pastorius' Umstandige Geographische Beschreibung and Falckner's Curieuse Nachricht were issued in several editions. In 1704 a new edition of both was published in one volume under the title: Continuatio der Beschreibung der Landschafft Pennsylvania (Continuation of the description of the Province of Pennsylvania) to which was added a German translation of Gabriel Thomas' "Account." This combination formed the most important early work on Pennsylvania published in the German language. It was these successive editions of Pastorius and Falckner's accounts that called the attention of the sturdy yeomanry of the Fatherland to the advantages of Penn's colony and started that great stream of emigration which at one time almost threatened to depopulate the Palatinate, brought thousands and thousands of Germans to our province and made Pennsylvania the great Commonwealth it is to-day. Sachse.

See, Gabriel Thomas.

1625. FARMER, SILAS. The history of Detroit and Michigan; or, the Metropolis Illustrated: a Chronological Cyclopædia of the Past and Present, including a full Record of Territorial Days in Michigan and the Annals of Wayne County. Detroit, Mich.: Silas Farmer & Co., 1884. 12mo, 46 + 1024 pp.

"Mr. Farmer's work seems to have been undertaken in the true historical spirit and executed with painstaking and conscientious care. The author tells us, in his preface, that he found it impossible to carry along in one narrative all the various themes pertaining to the history of the city of Detroit and its surrounding territory; therefore he classified the different branches of the subject and treated each in a special manner by itself. One notable chapter of thirty pages is devoted to the British and Indian wars, the French and Spanish intrigues, and the War of the Revolution. Another chapter treats of Indian affairs from 1790 to 1812; and two chapters contain the history of the War of 1812. . . . The 'Conspiracy of Pontiac' and the 'Biography of Cadillac' also form chapters of peculiar attractions. . . . One-third of the work is occupied with matters appertaining to Michigan in general, owing to the close relation of the city to the territorial government. A novel feature of this history is nearly one hundred pages of continuous city—the homes of the citizens of Detroit—illustrated. There are not less than one hundred and seventy houses thus pictorially presented in well-executed engravings. Following these, the chapters of ecclesiastical history are also illustrated with seventy or more churches." From Magazine of Am. Hist.

1648. ———. Albany, and its Place in the History of the United States, a Memorial Sketch of it written for the 200th Anniversary of its Birthday as a City. Albany: 1886. 8vo, pp. 98.

Relates to Colonial period. The author was selected as historian by Albany bicentennial committee.

1649. ———. The Ohio Valley in Colonial Days. Albany, N. Y.: Joel Munsell's Sons, 1890. 8vo, pp. 4-299.

"The author goes into the history of the discovery of the Ohio; a hitherto unknown MS. which he offers makes a claim of discovery by Connecticut parties in 1659; the chapter on the cartography of the Ohio speaks, probably, of all maps which give even the slightest indication of the river; the history of the Indians, who hunted in the valley, is as exhaustive as it could be in a work not treating specially of the aborigines. The chapters about the troubles and wars between the English and French can give nothing new, except in letters and papers hitherto not known. Among these the documentary history of the Ohio Company, organized by Washington's brothers, is specially to be mentioned. A concise account is given of what the colonies on the seaboard did in the conquest of the Ohio Valley from the French and Indians." Amer. Catalog.

1670. ———. The Discovery, Settlement, and Present State of Kentucky. And an Introduction to the Topography and Natural History of that Rich and Important Country; also, Colonel Daniel Boon's Narrative of the Wars of Kentucky, with An Account of the Indian Nations within the Limits of the United States, their Manners, Customs, Religion, and their Origin; and the Stages and Distances between Philadelphia and the Falls of the Ohio from Pittsburgh to Pensacola, and several other Places. Illustrated with a large sheet Map of Kentucky from actual Surveys, and a Plan with a Description of the Rapids of the River Ohio. By Capt. Thomas Hutchins, Geographer to the Congress. London: John Stockdale, 1793. 8vo, pp. 67. Map.

"It is also included in Imlay's 'Topographical Description of the Western Territory,' 2d and 3d editions. Filson believed in the existence of a Welsh settlement in this colony, under Prince Madoc, in 1170. See M. Rev. 14, 148." Sabin.

In a catalogue the following note appears after the title of this edition, which is there priced at $5.00: "This has no map, and we think none was published with this edition. We certainly know that the edition of 1784 contained none, while the title page calls for one."

"Inasmuch as only one impression of the map is known it is an open question whether it was actually issued with the book, or whether the author proposed to borrow impressions from some source known to him at the time of publication." Barlow.

"The map mentioned in the title seems never to have been published with the book; when found it is supplied from the French version of the book." Ives' Catalog.

The author was killed by the Indians of Ohio.

Sabin gives the publishers Merriam & Wood.

At the end of the Sermon, page 31, there is a half title: Capt. Thomas Wheeler's Narrative of an Expedition with Capt. Edward Hutchinson into the Nipmuck Country, and to Quaboag, now Brookfield, Mass. First Published in 1675. Prefacing this is a letter to Mr. Foot from Samuel Shattuck, who loaned the copy for the Narrative. Mr. Foot, in a note after the title, says: The following Narrative is very scarce, and must have been so when Gov. Hutchinson wrote his History of Massachusetts, as it does not appear, in giving an account of the Expedition in which his ancestor sustained such an important part and lost his life, that the historian has made any reference whatever to Capt. Wheeler's Narrative, which he would most likely have done had he known of its existence.

Written and printed by Benjamin Franklin, and one of the rarest of the "Paxson Boys" Pamphlets.

Proud says that the massacre it narrates is "the most horrible that ever was heard of in this or, perhaps, any other province." History of Pennsylvania, II, 326. It was printed while the insurgents were preparing to advance towards Philadelphia." "So far had the infection spread, which caused this action, and so much had fear seized the minds of the people, or perhaps both, that neither the printer nor the writer of this publication, though supposed to be as nearly connected as Franklin and Hall were at that time, and men of the first character in their way, inserted either their names or places of abode, in it." Ibid, p. 328.

"Shehaes, one of the slain, had assisted in the second treaty (1701) with Wm. Penn. Twenty-two unoffending innocent Indians, old men, women and children, who had long lived at peace with and among the whites, were murdered, with every circumstance of cowarily cruelly, by a mob of the Presbyterian settlers, calling themselves the Paxton Boys, led on by the Rev. Mr. Elder, persuading themselves they were doing God's work. Mr. Field, in his Indian Bibliography, characterizes this massacre as 'the most horrible picture of human phrensy this continent ever saw.'" Sabin.

Vol. 1, pp. 408, 5 maps and frontispiece; Vol. 2, pp. 428, frontispiece, 2 maps and folding table.

"The author was a merchant of Treves and emigrant commissioner on the Lower Rhine; he encouraged emigration to the Virginia Military Lands in Ohio. In 1819-20 Gall came to Ohio to examine the state of the Country for emigration; he lived for some time in Cincinnati and on his return to Germany, published this work in which he strongly opposes emigration, and pictures the people and country in the darkest colors possible. In this work will be found a brief history of Cincinnati, the Miami Country, and the early settlements in Ohio; also a map of Cincinnati, and of the Miami Country, which are reproductions of those contained in Drake's Picture of Cincinnati." Thomson.

In some copies the date does and in others it does not appear on the title.

"It is not known which is the earlier issue. Occasionally copies are found without the date but with 2 leaves of errata at the end, which tends to prove that the dateless edition is the later; but copies of the issue with the date have also been noticed with the errata leaves, perhaps inserted. The two issues are exactly alike with the exception of the titles and errata." Stevens.

1832. ———. Histoire | de la Conquete de la Floride; ou | Relation de ce qui s'est passé dans la Découverte | de ce Pais | par | Ferdinand de Soto, | composée en Espagnol | par | L'Inca Garcilasso de la Vega, | et traduite en François | par Sr. Pierre Richelet. Leide, Pierre Vander, 1731. 12mo, pp. (26), 582. 2 vols. Map, Plates and vignette titles. + La Haye. 1735. 2 vols. + Paris. 1709.

"Very rare. The author was the son of one of the conquerors of Peru, Garcillasso de la Vega, by the daughter of the Inca Huallpa Tupac, and sister of Huayna Capac Inca, the last native monarch of Peru. He was so proud of both his paternal and maternal origin, that while he assumed the Spanish name of the first, he was careful to assert his Incarial descent. He was evidently a gentleman of refinement and possessed of much more learning than was usually acquired by the conquistadors themselves. That one of Indian blood and a descendant of the proud race of the Incas, should have been the most industrious and careful historian of the evil fortunes of his race, and the chronicler of the victories of their conquerors, may well excite our surprise." Vroom Catalog.

1854. ———. History of Louisiana; with City and Topographical Maps of the State, Ancient and Modern. Third Edition, Enlarged. New Orleans, La.: Armand Hawkins, 1885. 4 vols. 8vo, pp. 540; 383; 649; 693.

"Originally delivered as a series of historical lectures on Louisiana at the People's Lyceum, New Orleans. As an introduction, the first volume comprises 'The poetry, or the Romance of the History of Louisiana,' describing in a most dramatic manner the fictitious and legendary history of this state. The second volume deals with the period extending from the discovery of Louisiana to 1769 when it was finally transferred from the French to the Spanish in virtue of the Fontainebleau treaty signed in Nov., 1763.

"The third volume gives the Spanish domination from O'Reilly's administration in 1769 to that of Salcedo, 1801-1803. The last volume covers the period from the cession to the U. S. in 1803 to the eventful year 1815, including a full account of Jackson's campaign. A supplemental chapter carries the history forward to 1861. The work is regarded as a standard and has received unqualified praise by some of the best known American historians. Gayarre was born in New Orleans, Jan., 1805, and has at various times been Judge of the New Orleans City Court, Deputy Attorney General, U. S. Senator and Secretary of State of Louisiana." *Publ. Edition of 400 copies. Edition of 100 on Whatman paper.

"One, of the three journals of Christopher Gist, was never before published; the three are now published together for the first time. They cover the periods of 1750-51, 1751-52, and 1753, the first two giving an account of his travels and discoveries down the river Ohio and its branches for the Ohio Company, together with his transactions with the Indians and his return home; the third is an account of a journey in attendance upon Major George Washington, to the commandant of the French Fort on the Ohio River. Gist's explorations of the region now included within the boundaries of Ohio, Ky., W. Va., and parts of Western Maryland and S. W. Penn., were the earliest made so far west for the single object of examining the country, as they are the first also of which a regular journal was kept. As they were in the interests of a great land company, their results were not generally made known. In 1776 the first journal was published in London, but few copies came to America. This volume also includes notes on all the journals, biographies of the Montours, Geo. Croghan, T. Cresap, Gen. Ja. Grant, with other valuable papers relative to the subject." Publ. Weekly.

Roy. 8vo, pp. ix, 1 errata, 394, 1 l. Names of Subscribers to the Publication Fund.*

"A sumptuous volume of large size on heavy paper, rough-edged, containing nearly thirty illustrations, many of them full-page photogravures, carries the elaborate history and group of genealogies gathered and written by an expert, largely as a labor of love. 'The Welsh Tract' is one of the most historic and picturesque regions in the environs of Philadelphia—one of the most richly improved, and probably the home of more of the very old families than any other area of equal size in this country. It is needless to say that its intensely interesting early history has been done ample justice in this work, which is probably the most important of the several written by its accomplished author." Leary, Stuart's Catalog.

This interesting series consists of twenty-four essays upon the early history of New York, and was issued in the interest of the New York City History Club. It was issued monthly and each volume contains twelve parts. It bears much the same relation to New York history as do the Old South Leaflets to the history of Boston. The numbers are as follows: The Stadt Huys of New Amsterdam, by Alice Morse Earle; King's College: now Columbia University, 1754-1897, by John B. Pine; Annetje Jans's Farm by Ruth Putnam; Wall Street, by Oswald Garrison Villard; Governor's Island, by Blanche Wilder Bellamy; The Fourteen Miles Round, by Alfred Bishop Mason and Mary Murdoch Mason; The City Chest of New Amsterdam, by Edward Dana Durand; Fort Amsterdam in the Days of the Dutch, by Maud Wilder Goodwin; Old Greenwich, by Elizabeth Bisland; Old Wells and Water Courses of the Island of Manhattan, by Geo. Everett Hill and Geo. E. Waring, Jr.; The Bowery, by Edward Ringwood Hewill and Mary Ashley Hewett. Series II: Slavery in New York, by Edwin Vernon Morgan; Tammany Hall, by Talcott Williams; Old Prisons and Punishments, by Elizabeth Dike Lewis; The New York Press and its Makers, by Charlotte M. Martin and Benjamin Ellis Martin; Bowling Green, by Spencer Trask; New Amsterdam Family Names and their Origin, by Berthold Fernow; Old Taverns and Posting Inns, by Elisabeth Brown Cutting; The Doctor in Old New York, by F. H. Bosworth; Early Schools and Schoolmasters of New Amsterdam, by Emma Van Vechten; The Battle of Harlem Heights, by William R. Shepherd; Origin of Breucklen, by Harrington Putnam; The Natural Ground, by Charles Pryer.

Collation of copy by Rich: Title: "To the Judicious Reader," 4 pp. Text, 51 pp. Map, "Americæ Descrip." Part II. 1658. Title and 57 pp. Part III. 1658. Title: "To the Reader," 1 leaf. Text, 236 pp. Part IV. 1659. Title: "The Preface," 2 pp. Text, 52 pp. "The General Table of the Four Parts," and "Books lately printed." 10 leaves.

"Part II of this was printed in Maine Hist. Soc. Coll., Vol. 2; also Mass. Hist. Soc. Coll., Vol. VI. Third Ser. These four works were all printed separately (the 2d and 3d in 1658), but I believe are always found together. There is an index at the end which refers to the four parts, but without any distinguishing mark, by which the reader may ascertain in which book the article referred to may be found. Not the least singular circumstance relating to this work is the manner in which Ferdinando Gorges, Esq., has appropriated to himself the authorship of a work written by another, as appears by the following extract from Prince's New England: 'When I went to England, I met with a great variety of Books and Pamphlets relating to this country. Among others in a History of New England, from 1628 to 1651, printed in 4to, London, 1654, I found many particulars of the beginning of our several churches, towns and colonies, which appear in no other writer. The running title of the book is, "Wonder working Providence, &c.," and in the genuine title page no author is named. Some of the books were faced with a false title page, wherein the work is wrongly assigned to Sir F. Gorges; but the true author was Mr. Johnson of Woburn, in New England, as the late Judge Sewall assured me, as of a thing familiarly known among the fathers of the Massachusetts Colony.' The third of these books being neither more nor less than the identical history of New England, with merely a new title page and dedication. The first and second books are spoken of in the North American Review, Vol. 2, p. 289, but in an inverted order. The title of the first book, as given there, is the same as the title to the third in my copy. Besides the map, there is a portrait of a young Indian woman, with a human leg in her hand; a folded plate, inscribed

'AMERICA.

'Tis I, in tempting divers, for to try,
By sundry meanes, t'obtaine me, caus'de them dye:
And, last discover'd, undiscover'd am:
For men, to treade my soyle, as yet, are lame.'"

"An extremely rare pamphlet." Sabin.

Mr. Hall was sent by the Presbyterian church in 1800 with two other missionaries to the Mississippi Territory. They reached Nashville in November, 1800, and from thence went on horseback by way of the Chicasaw nation. They reached the territory in the first week in December and left the third week in April, 1801. The author in the preface states: "As I have been solicited by sundry persons to publish an account of my travels throughout that part of the Union, and having my own geographical curiosity highly gratified by travelling through such a vast tract of country, the history of which is little known; presuming that a brief view of the interjacent space between the settlements of Cumberland and the territory together with a sketch of the history of that territory would afford some gratification to my fellow citizens the following pages are with deference submitted to the candor of the public by their humble servant, the author."

This is the first history of this territory.

"Very rare and worth about $200. Contains 'minute relations of the Characteristics of the Indians of Virginia.'" Field.

"This contemporaneous account of Pocahontas has increased rapidly in the estimation of collectors. Barney's copy sold for 150.00; Bruce's for $175.00; Menzies' for $220.00; Barlow's for $300.00; and a London dealer recently priced it at £120 in his catalogue." Br. Ives Catalog.

There are two issues of Hamor's Virginia, a fact apparently not recorded by any American bibliographer, till Mr. H. N. Stevens pointed it out in 1898. On page 60 the concluding paragraph in this edition contains thirteen lines and consists of a criticism of the clergy, 'but I much more muse that so few of our English Ministers that were so got against the Surplis and Subscription: come hither where neither are spoken of.' In the other edition this was cancelled and twelve lines of other matter of a non-critical nature substituted." Leffert's Catalog. 1902.

A work of great rarity. We have seen only one copy, belonging to Mr. James Lenox. There is a copy in the Grenville Library at the British Museum, and another in the Bodleian Library at Oxford; and a copy was sold at Dublin in Dec. 1873, with five other rare pieces relating to America, for less than £25, the real value was at least ten times that sum. Lowndes does not even as much as mention Hariot, and in searching the works of other eminent bibliographers our success has been nil, the ominous gap remained unfilled. Rich silently passes over Anno 1588, and Stevens in all his 'Nuggets' had it not. It remained for Brunet alone to describe the work. Heber did not let it escape his all devouring, still insatiate maw, and from that source Brunet gets his title. It is included in De Bry's Collection, and forms the rarest volume of that series which is described in our Vol. 3, pp. 24-3P. An abridged English version is included in Hakluyt's Collection, Vol. 3. For a German version see Dresser, Vol. 5, No. 2926." Sabin.

In 1580 De Bry published Hariot's Narrative with a map and twenty-three plates from the drawings of John White, and to secure more profit had the text printed in English, Latin, French and German, thus offering four editions to the public. This was the only part of the Collection of his Voyages that appeared in English. It was after the publication of this work that De Bry conceived the idea of his collections, and Hariot's narrative forms the first part of his Great Voyages." Weeks.

See Theodore de Bry.

"This English text is so rare that only five or six copies are known. That which is described in the Biblioth. Grenvil, 1, 185-186, had been bought by Lord Oxford, at Frankfort, about 1710, for £100. Another brought the same price at the Nassau Sale. The copies which were sold for £47 5s., at the Thompson sale, in 1813, and 31 fr. at Hanrott's, were not perfectly complete." Sabin.

Sabin devotes forty pages to titles and descriptions of the various editions of De Bry, with great minutiæ of collation. The title above is of the Great Voyages, the English edition of the First Part. For the many titles collated, see Sabin's "Dict. of Books relating to America," V. 3 (Part xiii).

"The rarest and most precious book relating to North America. Including this, the writer does not know of the existence of more than half a dozen perfect copies. These are the copies in the British Museum and the Bodleian Libraries, and in the private collections of Mr. Lenox Brown and Mr. Christie-Miller. There is a very imperfect one in the Library of Harvard College and one wanting two leaves belonging to Sir Thomas Phillipps. No copy complete in England is known to have been sold for less than £100 for the past hundred years, and one has been understood to have changed hands at double that sum, and probably will again if the opportunity occurs." Stevens.

This is the De Bry edition, the first volume of the Voyages. An interesting letter concern Hakluyt and De Bry, and the illustrations of the Voyages may be found in Steven's Bibliotheca Historica, Boston: Houghton, 1870. p. 223.

"Some copies of Vol. 1, have the imprint Raleigh, 1857. I have seen the collation of Vol. 3, on the authority of the late William Gowans, who assured me he had seen the volume and that the entire edition was shipped to North Carolina during the earlier period of the Civil War, and was probably lost, but per contra, the publishers assert it was never printed. The author's plan is to print some original document, or a rare tract, and to append his own historical narrative." Sabin.

"I have never seen the third volume, nor have I ever found any mention of it except in Sabin.

"Dr. Hawks reprints in his first volume the narrative given by Hakluyt. In the second he has reprinted many original papers that have more recently appeared in the Colonial Records of North Carolina.

"Dr. Hawks possessed the broadest scholarship and the highest literary attainments of any one who has written on the history of North Carolina; but he is at times bigoted and a partisan. The second volume deals largely with social phenomena as the following contents will show: I. Exploration and Settlements; II. The Law and its Administration; III. Agriculture and Manufactures; IV. Navigation and Trade; V. Religion and Learning; VI. Manners and Customs. N. Am. Rev., July, 1860." Weeks Bibl'y.

Dr. Hawks published some of his books under the pseudonym of Lambert Lilly.

2202. HEATON, JOHN L. The story of Vermont; Illustrated by L. J. Bridgman. Boston: D. Lothrop Co., 1889. 8vo, pp. 319. Story of the states series.

"To tell the story of the state's early trials—which can never be too often rehearsed least her sons should forget to be grateful for their ancestry; to add to this an accouunt of the more recent events that have escaped the attention they deserve;and to include so far as possible in this brief recital the growth of arts and learning, the development of industry, and the evolution of laws, customs, and institutions to meet the needs of a gracious, temperate, and valiant people—such has been the purpose of the writer. Not only to the people of Vermont, but to the citizens of every state in our broad land, is the story of the green mountain state offered as a help and inspiration, and a record of steady endeavor." Preface.

Interspersed with Anecdotes, Historical Facts, Speeches of Indians, and other Interesting Matter. By John Heckewelder, Who was many Years in the Service of that Mission. Philadelphia: M'Carty & Davis, 1820. 8vo, pp. vii, 17-429, Errata, 1 p. Portrait of Zeisberger.

"In March, 1904, there was sold by Stan. V. Henkels at public outcry, by order of the Administrator in the city of Philadelphia, the stock of Rare and Scarce Americana, formerly the property of Moses Polock, believed to have been at his death the oldest bookseller in the United States. The Collection of books, manuscripts, et cetera, was a most remarkable one, and comprised among other important pieces, the original autograph manuscript of THE HECKEWELDER NARRATIVE, neatly written by the author on 445 quarto pages. With this was a letter from Wm. M'Carty to his firm, M'Carty & Davis, setting out the terms of his contract with Heckewelder for the publication of the book. The author was to be given sixty complete copies of the work in exchange for all rights.

"Heckewelder's Narrative is one of the most valuable historical works ever written. It could not be otherwise, for the character of the writer was of the highest and he records what he saw and actually knew from experiences and observations during his labors among the Indian tribes in the wilderness. The material is vital to the history of the Ohio Valley and the region of the Great Lakes when considered directly, and generally it is vital to American history in that it shows the condition under which the English-speaking people moved westward in occupation of the continent.

"This great work of the famous missionary has been unquestioned authority since its publication in 1820. An examination of the original manuscript and the comparison of it with the work as printed show that the publishers exercised the liberty of making many minor alterations in the text as left by the author. These changes are plainly indicated and they sometimes make the author's meaning ambiguous, indeed in almost every instance modify or change his idea. There is scarcely a page of the work free from these alterations, and each one detracts from the quaint, elegant and direct style of Heckewelder. To secure the accuracy with which the author recorded historical events and retain his simple style and candid manner, a new edition is necessary.

"The period covered by the Narrative is the most important in the history of America; the War of the Revolution had been successfully fought; a new nation was firmly established with Liberty as the central idea; dissatisfaction in the Trans-Alleghany country was removed and Louisiana acquired. No other work gives such a lucid account of the transactions in Ohio Valley and the Northwest.

"It is surmised that the original edition, brought out in 1820, was small. In any event the work is exceedingly scarce at the present time. As published it was continuous, without division into chapters, though it is evident that the author wished it otherwise.

In 1906 Burrows Bros. issued the above proposal to issue a new edition of this book.

Burlington, Vt.: Miss A. M. Hemenway, 1867-71. 2 vols. 8vo, pp. xi, 1096; 1199. Portraits and Plates.

"This is a series of Town Histories, grouped in Counties, and issued in quarterly numbers. Each number contains 100 pages in double columns, and portrait. It was first issued as the 'Vermont Quarterly Gazetteer.'" Ludlow, Vt., 1860. Sabin.

Vol. 1 contains histories of Addison, Bennington, Caledonia, Chittenden and Essex Counties. Vol. 2, Franklin, Grand Isle, La Moille and Orange Counties.

The following item, starting probably from "Weissnichtwo," has been widely copied and will probably go down in history as one of the curiosities of literature:

'A remarkable woman, named Abby Maria Hemenway, born in Burlington, Vt., recenttly died in Chicago. Her life was devoted to compiling a minute history of Vermont. To obtain material she travelled through the State, visiting everywhere people of information and getting from them family papers and traditions bearing on her subject. During the last years of her life she lived—with her printing-press—in two small upper rooms of an obscure dwelling in Chicago, putting her history in type as fast as she wrote it. Five octavo volumes had been printed at the time of her death. The sixth was to have been the last, and the struggling author had promised herself rest upon its completion.'

The work referred to is, no doubt, "The Historical Gazetteer of Vermont," the first four volumes of which were published with the imprint of the Claremont Manufacturing Co., Claremont, N. H. Long before the war, Miss Hemenway, who then lived in Montpelier, Vt., started her work, which was to be issued in monthly numbers. She issued several parts in this way, on her own account, when early in the sixties she made arrangements with the Claremont house to continue the work. Owing to her erratic way of working, however, her publishers one day found that they had actually stereotyped 1200 pages before issuing a single part, and so it was decided to publish the work, not as a magazine, but in volumes of a certain number of pages. The Claremont Mfg. Co. issued three volumes for her. Then one of the firm personally issued a volume of the work, and with Miss Hemenway issued a fourth volume from Montpelier, Vt. A few years ago Miss Hemenway went to Chicago to complete the work. The fifth valume was written, but not printed nor even in type—and certainly not put in type by the author herself. So the pathetic story of the "struggling author" with her "printing-press in two small upper rooms of an obscure dwelling" will have to be taken cum grano salis. Bibliophilus in Publ. Weekly.

Vol. 5 was published in 1891.

A lasting memorial to the enthusiasm and perseverance of Miss Hemenway, one of the most prominent writers of Vermont, who spent her life in editing and her fortune in publishing this monumental work. The scheme comprehended a history of every town in the State, to be compiled by local historians and to be edited and revised by Miss Hemenway. After the fifth volume had been written nearly all the manuscript of that volume was destroyed by fire. Undaunted by this misfortune Miss Hemenway bravely set to work, recovered the lost manuscript, and had nearly completed the volume when death overtook her. The volume was completed and published by her sister, Mrs. C. E. H. Page. No State has so complete a local history, and it is doubtful if a similar task is ever undertaken. Each volume contains about twelve hundred pages, printed in double columns, and complete sets are seldom offered for sale. G. E. Littlefield, Catalog.

"This is the first edition of the second part; it includes the substance of his first book, but gives, before the account of his voyage up the Mississippi, an account of a voyage he here claims to have made down to the mouth and up again. It is identical, in fact, with Membré's in Leclercq, which Hennepin says was taken from his account. The charges against Hennepin's veracity are based on this interpolation chiefly. The preface contains a narration of his embroglio with Mr. La Salle. See Tromel, No. 422." Sabin. The following is the same work with a new title page only:

Parker, the printer of this very rare work, was an apprentice of Bradford and succeeded him in business, in 1742. Rice Catalog.

"An excessively rare work. The only copy sold in New York during many years was one damaged by water, belonging to Mr. Bruce, at whose sale it was bought for Mr. Rice; it was resold with his collection for 140.00; Mr. Quaritch in a recent catalogue offers a copy for £45, and remarks, 'I know of no other copy sold in the London market. The work had become so scarce even in 1810, that the editor of the edition of that year intimates that he experienced the greatest difficulty in finding a copy.'" Sabin.

"Prior to the sale of Mr. Menzies' copy (which brought 240.00) the only copy sold in New York during many years was one damaged by water, belonging to Mr. Bruce, at whose sale it was bought for Mr. Rice; it was resold with his collection for 140.00." Brinley Catalog.

"A superlatively rare book. In 1810 this work was very difficult to get, and since then copies have but rarely appeared. Unquestionably it is one of the most interesting 'historical nuggets' known." Henkels.

2412. ———. History of the Louisiana Purchase. Chicago: Callaghan & Co., 1902. 8vo, pp. 170.

"The early history of the vast domain transferred by France to the United States in 1803 is found in the Margry Papers, in the other official or personal accounts of the first explorers and settlers, and in various contemporary records and writings. The American State Papers, the archives of the Department of State, the acts and utterances of public men, best make known what took place at the time of the actual acquisition of Louisiana. These sources of information having been examined, long lists of references and authorities need not burden a condensed account of our first peaceful expansion of territory." Burrows Bros.' Catalog.

This book was approved by Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company.

"Collation: 7 prel. leaves, viz.: Licence, signed "Simeon Bradstreet,' &c.; Title; Dedication, pp. (4), signed 'William Hubbard'; 'An Advertisement,' &c., pp. (2); 'To the Rev. Mr. William Hubbard,' &c., i p. signed, 'J. S.'; 'Upon the elaborate Survey,' &c., pp. (2), signed 'B. T.'; 'The Printer to the Reader,' i p.; 'A Map of New England, Being the first that ever was here cut,' &c.; 'A Narrative,' &c.; pp. 132; 'A Table,' &c., pp. (7); 'A Postscript,' i p., & pp. (7-12); 'A Narrative of the Troubles with the Indians in New England, From Piscataqua to Pemaquid,' pp. 88.

"A fine and perfect copy of this rare and valuable work, with the map which is often wanting, is one of the desiderata in an American collection. This book has been frequently reprinted and will always remain an authority upon the subjects of which it treats. The Sermon (See title above, Ed.), which usually follows the Narrative, is not a necessary part of the book, but we have never seen a copy of the Narrative in the original binding, which did not contain it; our opinion is that the publisher having many copies of the Sermon, bound it up with the Narrative, to get rid of 'The Happiness,' an unsalable tract.

"The rare and curious map, often wanting, is described as follows on the map itself: 'A map of New England, being the first that ever was here cut, and done by the best pattern that could be had, which being in some places defective, it made the other less exact; yet doth it sufficiently show the situation of the country, and conveniently well the distances of places, &c.' It possesses in itself high bibliographical interest, for according to Thomas's History of Printing, it is probably the first book printed in Boston, all the printing in the British Colonies previous to 1676, being done at Cambridge, and in that year the first press was set up at Boston.

"There are errors in the pagination in signature m, page 84, but the error is corrected on p. 93. In some copies the errata on the last page fills 10 lines, wheareas there are generally 12 lines. The money value of the work is great; Mr. Rice's copy sold in 1870 for $180.00. The buyer must be sure to get the right map, and concerning this he is referred to the note appended to the following reprint:" (Next title.) Sabin.

"This was supposed until recently to be the first book printed in Boston. The map which it contains is the first one engraved in New England. The present copy is perfect and has the genuine map in fine condition (Ives copy). It is so rare in this state that while Mr. Brinley had several copies not one of them was perfect." Ives's Catalog.

Hubbard, Minister of Ipswich. | London: | Printed for Tho. Parkhurst at the Bible and Three Crowns in Cheapside, | near Mercers-Chappel, and at the Bible on London-Bridg, 1677. | 4to.*

"Collation: 7 prel. leaves, viz.: Licence; Title; Dedication, pp. (4); An Advertisement, pp. (2); To the Rev. Mr. William Hubbard, pp. (2), signed J. S.; Vpon the elaborate Survey, &c., pp. (2) signed, B. T.; A Map of New England, &c.; Text, pp. 131; A Table, &c., pp. (7); Postscript, pp. (6); A Narrative, &c., pp. 88.*

"It will be noticed that while the collation of the preliminary leaves is identical with the Boston edition as to their numbers, their contents differ. The Printer to the Reader, which is in fact errata, is omitted, while the poetical addresses occupy two leaves instead of 3 pages as in the Boston edition. The errata on p. 88 of the Narrative is also omitted, in other respects its contents are precisely the same. Its mercantile value is less than the Boston edition, and for this reason the map, which really belongs to the London edition, is often inserted in the Narrative. The proper map can readily be identified as follows: in the Boston edition the mound, which is delineated immediately below the title of the map, is properly designated 'The White Hills'—in the London edition this mound is called 'The Wine Hills.' There are other differences in the map which are minutely pointed out in Field's Essay, Nos. 431, 432. Mr. Field remarks that it has remained a matter of some doubt whether the London edition is not complete without the map, on which we remark that there is no doubt at all about it, each edition has its own proper map, without which either is incomplete. Mr. Field's conjecture as to the London edition having been printed from MSS based on the date of the licence, is scarcely tenable; the licence to print proves nothing. Finally the map to each of these editions has been produced in exact facsimile by Henry Stevens in London, and the map to the Boston edition was reproduced by W. E. Woodward in Boston, so that the motto caveat emptor will be good advice." Sabin.

2504. ———. A Topographical Description of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, &c. Edited by Frederick Charles Hicks. Cleveland: Burrows Bros., 1904. Size 9⅜ x 6⅜, pages 143, folding maps, portrait and plates, cloth.*

Thomas Hutchins, the author, occupies a unique place in the history of American cartography, being the only incumbent of the civil office of "Geographer of the United States," the position ceasing to exist after his death in 1789.

While directed by him there were executed the first public surveys under the auspices of the Government. He is entitled to commendation not only because of this fact but for the reason of his honorable connection of over twenty-two years, as an officer in the British army, eighteen of which were given to the Engineer Department.

His observations covering the entire southern and western country from West Florida to the Lakes, are embodied in several maps and two books, the earlier of which is now offered to the public in an accurate reprint. The prefatory remarks indicate that the volume is intended more particularly to explain the larger map entitled "The new map of the western parts of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and North Carolina," etc., published separately but of the same date as the book. This chart, 35x45 inches in size, together with the folded maps included in the volume, are reproduced with absolute accuracy. Strange as it may seem, the life of Hutchins who in many respects was vitally connected with the history of the American Colonies, their struggle for independence, and their development after it was attained, has never been written. As an introduction to the volume, the editor, Frederick Charles Hicks, formerly of the Library of Congress, has prepared, entirely from original sources, an extended account of the man, supplemented by a bibliography of his published and unpublished writings. The Topographical Description is copiously annotated and the whole provided with a complete index. Included is the particularly important and exceedingly scarce Journal of Patrick Kennedy, together with a list of the different nations and tribes of Indians then scattered throughout those parts. As an addition to our cartographical literature the work is most acceptable, but in presenting a life drawn from official documents, unpublished correspondence and government records, many new facts are for the first time made public and much of importance, heretofore unknown, is given to the student and historian. Burrows Bros. War, and Commissioner for | laying out lands in the Back Settlements. | Illustrated with correct Maps of the Western Territory of North | America; of the State of Kentucky, as divided into Counties | from the latent Surveys; and a Plan of the Rapids of the Ohio. | The Second Edition, | with considerable Additions. | London: | Printed for J. Debrett, 1793. 8vo, pp. xvi, 433. Index 10 leaves, unnumbered, 3 maps and 1 table of Distances.

"The title page contains a curious error; in giving the author's name as George instead of Gilbert. The letters pp. 1-266 are an exact reprint of those published in the first edition. Then follows the History of Kentucky by John Filson, first published at Wilmington in 1784, and occupying pp. 271-415 of the work. The value of this edition is increased by the full index which accompanies it. The map of Kentucky which is contained in this edition is much inferior to the one in the third edition, which is very complete." Thomson.

"The map of Kentucky accompanying this edition is much more complete than that in the second edition; it is 14x30 inches, very complete and beautifully engraved. In the note at the bottom of page 502, also page 504, the reader is referred to 'the annexed plan' of villages on the Mississippi, which plan, however, was never published with the work; it probably refers to the one contained in Hutchins, which was intended to have been published in this work, but was afterwards not thought of consequence enough to be engraved." Thomson.

"Gilbert Imlay spent the first twenty-five years of his life in the backwoods and in fighting for Independence; after the war he was made a 'commissioner for laying out lands in the back settlements;' he visited London and arranged for the first edition of his book, then went to Paris during the perilous times of 1792-3. The second edition, to which is added the first English edition of Filson's Kentucky, was issued by Debrett during Imlay's absence, hence probably the error of 'George' on title page.

"The man's name was Gilbert, and he has probably obtained an unenviable immortality as the husband of 'Mary Wolstoncraft,' with whom he was living when this edition of his book came out. In his book are many signs of that enthusiasm for liberty which undoubtedly drew the attention of this remarkable woman to him, but the typical American determination to make money at any cost soon blotted out both Mary and her child." George's Sons Catalog.

Long, of the U. S. Top. Engineers. Compiled from the notes of Major Long, Mr. T. Say, and other Gentlemen of the party. By Edwin James, botanist and geologist to the Expedition. London: Longman, Hurst, Orme & Brown, 1823. 3 vols. 8vo, pp. vii, 344; vii, 356; vii, 347. Folding map and table of sections, eight plates in aquatint and colors, by I Clark.*

Printed in a larger type and better style than the American issue. The plates are not the same, either in subject or in style of production, these are all by I. Clark, and executed in aquatint excepting two which are highly colored, and the Bison robe plate which is hand colored and without engraver's name.

"The colored plates are, Distant View of the Early Mountains and Chasm of the Platte. The latter subject is not in the Phila edition, neither are the following plates which are in the London edition: Pawnee Council; Kiawa Encampment; Shienne, Kaskaia and Awappaho portraits. The Phila plate of Kaskaia lodge is reproduced as a woodcut in the London edition." George's Sons Catalog.

George's Sons advertise a London edition with plates not colored and add: "The existence of the book in this state may be taken to prove that Longmans made a remainder of it. The plates are lumped together and the boards have cloth backs."

Of this book it was said: "He leaves out dates. It is no excuse to say that dates are omitted from the original; Mr. Thwaites puts in the page numbers of the original edition, and changes the chapter numbers about to suit his plan of editing. Why then can he not put in the year and month dates?"

(Paris.) 1782. 8vo, pp. (2), 391.* The Same. Paris: 1785.

Two hundred copies were printed, some of which have a draught of a "Fundamental Constitution of Virginia." This edition of Mr. Jefferson's celebrated "Notes" was evidently printed in Paris; but as Mr. Jefferson did not reach France until the year 1784, the date on the title probably is not that of the year in which it was printed, but of the year in which the manuscript was completed. A copy presented to M. Malasherbe had the following note in Mr. Jefferson's handwriting: "Mr. Jefferson having had a few copies of these notes printed to present to some of his friends, and to some estimable characters beyond that line, takes the liberty of presenting a copy to M. de Malasherbe, as a testimony of his respect to his character. Unwilling to expose them to the public eye, he begs the favor of M. de M. to put them into the hands of no person on whose care and fidelity he cannot rely to guard them against publication." Rich, 1, 301. The proof sheets of this work, with corrections in the handwriting of the author, are in the New York State Library at Albany. Sabin.

Contains an eye draught of Madison's cave and folded table of Indian tribes.

Their manner of gathering | of Churches, the commodities of the Country, | and description of the principall Towns | and Havens, with the great encou- | ragements to increase Trade | betwixt them and Old | England. | With the names of all their Gouvenours, Magistrates, | and eminent Ministers. | London, | Printed for Nath. Brooke at the Angel | in Corn-hill, 1654. | 4to, pp. (4), 236, (4).

Collation: Two prel. l., viz., Title and "To the Reader," signed "T. H.," 2 pp., text, 236 pp., Brooke's Catalog., 4 pp.

"Better known by its running title of 'Wonder-working Providence.' There are copies with a different title page, title by 'T. H.,' and the dedication to all copies is so signed. It is a very rare, curious and highly interesting volume. It was regarded so good that it was stolen bodily by one of the 'Gorges,' and forms a part of 'America Painted to the Life,' by that enterprising firm. The author had a most intolerable itch for versifying, celebrating many of his characters in quaint metre." Sabin.

Some copies have also four pages of advertisements addressed to the "Courteous Reader."

2701. ———. Wonder-Working Providence of Sions Saviour in New England. (Second title: A History of New England From the English planting in the Yeere 1628 untill the Yeere 1652. London: Nath. Brooke, 1654. Reprinted.) With an Historical Introduction and an Index by William Frederick Poole. Andover: Warren F. Draper, 1867. Sm. 4to, pp. (8), cliv, (6), 265. Facsimile.

"Of this edition 250 copies were printed, fifty of which were on large paper." Sabin.

"The author of this very rare book was Captain Edward Johnson, of Woburn, Mass. Four years after its publication Brooke, the same publisher, issued Gorges' America Painted to the Life, incorporating Johnson's book with it. Gorges has been much blamed for the piracy, but the late Mr. Henry Stevens was enabled in 1881, for the first time, to explain this matter and clear Gorges of the imputation of literary thievery. Johnson's book belonged to Brooke, and, not being swift of sale, after four years, when publishing Gorges' book, he took upon himself the responsibility of working in and off his dead stock. As soon as Gorges found out this trick of his publisher he inserted in the Mercurius Publicus, Newspaper of the 13th September, 1660, the following:

ADVERTISEMENT.—I, Ferdinando Gorges, the entituled Author of a late Book, called America Painted to the Life, am injured in that additional part called Sion's Saviour in New England (as written by Sir Ferdinando Gorges), that being none of his and formerly printed in another name, the true owner." Stevens.

"When I went to England I met with a great variety of books and pamphlets relating to this country. Among others, in a history of New England, from 1628 to 1651, printed in 4to, London, 1654. I found many particulars of the beginning of our several churches, towns and colonies, which appear in no other writer. The running title of the book is, 'Wonder working Providence,' &c., and in the genuine title page no author is named. Some of the books were faced with a false title page, wherein the work is wrongly assigned to Sir F. Gorges; but the true author was Mr. Johnson, of Woburn, in New England, as the late Judge Sewall assured me, as of a thing familiarly known among the fathers of the Massachusetts Colony."

London: | Printed for Samvel Macham, and are to be sold at | his Shop in Pauls Church-yard, at the Signe of the Bulhead. | 1609. 4to, 18 lvs. Black letter.*

Collation: The Dedication "To the Right VVorshipfull Sir Thomas Smith, of London, Knight, one of his Maiesties Councell for Virginia." Signed R. I. Sig. A-E in fours. A1 and E4 blank.

In Force's Tracts, V. 1, No. 6.

"After Smith's 'True Relation' of 1608, the 'Nova Britannia' is the first printed book relating to the English settlement in Virginia. In making this statement no account is taken of Raleigh's abortive attempt to found a colony on the coast of North Carolina."

Sabin notes two forms of the title page, and it has been known for some time that there were at least two editions of the book. We have, however, discovered that the type was set at least four times, and that there are four distinct editions, differing generally in minute typographical particulars only. The greatest textual difference occurs on the recto of D4. This copy has only three paragraphs on that page. Another, probably a later edition, has four. This difference was brought about by the omission of the sentence, "As alos euery Planter and Adventurer shall bee inserted in the Patent by name."

The new Charter was not signed by the King until May 23d, 1609, having been kept open to receive the names of the "Planters and Adventurers." It seems probable, therefore, that the edition or editions without the above sentence were printed after this date.

"I have seen a copy in which the third word in the title page is spelled offering." Sabin.

A Paris: Estienne Robinot, 1713. 12mo, pp. xxxix, 386. Map.

"Very rare. Original edition. The folding map, which is usually wanting, was designed by Joutel for this work. He accompanied La Salle in his last voyage, 1684-87, and made his way by land, after the assassination of his chief, to Canada. The map was the first publication of the fruits of La Salle's last two voyages, and also the first fairly correct representation of the course of the Mississippi as far as the sea." Brevoort Catalog.

The London Edition of 1714 of Joutel's Last Voyage was reprinted and published by the Caxton Club. Chicago: 1896. Edition of but 203 copies for members only. Textual notes by M. B. Anderson.

"Joutel, to whom we owe the narrative of this voyage, was an honest burgher of Rouen. His family had close and honorable relations with the family of La Salle. His father, in fact, had been head gardener for La Salle's uncle, and Joutel himself needed no temptation to assist La Salle's enterprise. He was not a hero, the honest Joutel; when La Salle was murdered he followed the prudent course and saved his skin. But there was no obvious reason why he should have taken a needless risk when La Salle's blood was already shed, and we can feel a wise and proper gratitude that he ran away, not to fight another day, but to write his admirable account of the hero's voyage. And the account so happily composed had the further good fortune to be translated into excellent English, the authentic speech of the time; and it is this version which is here faithfully reprinted and skillfully annotated by Dr. Stiles, to whom we are pleased to give the credit of a sound and scholarly piece of work." The Spectator, London.

"The stories of the misfortunes of the pioneers and of the terrible days that followed the murder of their leader is told with a directness and simplicity that grip the attention with the interest of a work of fiction. Nor does Joutel, like Hennepin and other chroniclers of Early American Exploration, stand accused of having drawn on his imagination to embellish his Journal. On the contrary, historians entertain no doubts of its trustworthiness." Lit. Digest, N. Y.

La Salle's colonization on the Bay St. Louis, Texas.

2770. ———. A Journal of the Last Voyage performed by De La Salle to the Golph of Mexico, to find out the Mouth of the Mississippi River. Containing an account of the settlements he endeavored to make on the coast of the aforesaid bay, his unfortunate death, and the travels of his companions for the space of eight hundred leagues, across that inland country of America now called Louisiana (and given by the King of France to M. Crozat) till they came into Canada. Written in French, by Mons. Joutel, a commander in that expedition, and illustrated from the edition just published in Paris. With an exact map of that vast country, and a copy of the letters patent granted by the King of France to M. Crozat. London: 1714. 8vo.

This is an English translation of the first edition.

In 1906 another edition was published by Joseph McDonough, Albany, N. Y. Illustrated with frontispiece in photogravure of Gudebrod's Statue of La Salle and a facsimile of the large folding map of the original Paris edition of 1713. Edited with Historical and Biographical Introductions, Annotations, Notes and Index by Henry Reed Stiles, A. M., M. D., to which is added "A Bibliography of the Discovery of the Mississippi" by Appleton P. C. Griffin, of the Library of Congress. Small 4to, canvas back, paper label, uncut. Edition limited to 500 copies.

"A reprint of the rare London edition of 1714, which was reprinted in fac-simile by the Caxton Club of Chicago, in 1896, in an edition of but 203 copies for members only (which is absolutely out of print and scarce), enriched with textual notes by Prof. M. B. Anderson, the result of his careful collation of the English with the French original. These notes, by special permission of Mr. Anderson, have been incorporated in the present edition, with additional ones by the editor. The original has been printed verbatim, except where omissions have been discovered in the text of the translation; these have been inserted in their proper place.

"The Historical Introduction by Dr. Stiles is one of the utmost importance, as it gives a very full account of La Salle's previous expeditions through the Great Lakes and down the Mississippi.

Together with the 'Journal' it forms a complete history of the great explorer's life. There is also a biographical sketch of Joutel prefixed to the Journal. The whole is exhaustively indexed. These additions make this reprint especially valuable." McDonough Catalog.

Collation: Title; Dedication to Lord Ashley, 2 pp.; To the Reader; folded map of the whole territory traversed by John Lederer; text, pp. 1-27.

"A very rare book; Griswold's copy sold for $315.00. Lederer appears to have been regarded by the Virginians with no little jealousy, but, in the face of some misgivings, he seems to have won the good opinions of his patron and translator, Sir W. Talbot, who states that he found him to be 'a modest and ingenious person and a pretty scholar.' It is dedicated to Anthony Lord Ashley, Baron Ashley of Wimborn St. Giles, &c., one of the proprietors of Carolina. See Pennington's 'New Albion' and Rich's Catalogue, No. 358. I have seen a copy with the Licence, one leaf, preceding the title." Sabin.

"A second edition, with explanatory notes by H. A. Ratterman, was published in Cincinnati, 1879. 8vo, pp. xi, 33. Map." Weeks.

"Sir William Talbot thinks 'from this book that the long looked for discovery of the Indian Sea does nearly approach; and that Carolina presumes that the accomplishment of this glorious designe is reserved for her.' Lederer, who was a German, travelled far into the interior of Virginia, and imagined that he had nearly reached the shores of the great South Sea. He made himself obnoxious to the people of Virginia, and sought refuge in Maryland, where he was well received by Sir William Talbot, who, 'finding him a modest and ingenious person and a pretty scholar,' says: 'I thought it common justice to give him an occasion of vindicating himself from what I had heard of him, which truly he did with so convincing reason and circumstance, as quite abolished those former impressions in me, and made me desire this account of his travels, which here you have rendered out of Latine from his owne writings, with an entire map of the Territory he traversed.'" Preface.

Prof. Cyrus Thomas, of the Bureau of Ethnology, has within a few years declared that this book is largely a literary fake. In examining the original copy of the book he discovered many mistakes. "Lederer was an engineer or surveyor, he could read and write English, Spanish, German and Latin, was something of a poetaster and litterateur, danced well, and was a scholar."

Lederer had many quarrels with his party while making a survey of the York River and the Roanoke River. Captain Harris and his soldiers finally refused to go any further with Lederer, and when later Lederer arrived at Jamestown with tales of the marvels he had seen, the colonists drove him out of the colony. He then met William Talbot, who befriended him.

2961. ———. New Jersey as a Colony and as a State. One of the Original Thirteen. By Francis Bazley Lee. Associate Board of Editors: Wm. S. Stryker, LL. D., Wm. Nelson, A. M., Garret D. W. Vroom, Ernest C. Richardson, Ph. D. New York: The Publishing Society of

New Jersey, 1902. 4 vols. 8vo, pp. 422; 456; 400; 402. Illustrated with Maps, full page engravings and 500 marginal illustrations in Sepia.*

Francis Bazley Lee's "History of New Jersey," in four volumes, is the latest and best History of that State. A limited edition was published at $18.00. The story of New Jersey and her achievements in three centuries is graphically set forth in these four volumes with unusual force and accuracy, and, being both topical and narrative, cannot fail to please the most exacting student of history as well as the general reader. The subject is treated on the popular plan adopted by John Bach McMaster, under whom Mr. Lee studied for several years, and the picture drawn by the author and his associates (members of the colonial committee of the New Jersey Historical Society) is at once unique, interesting, comprehensive, and truthful. The matter has been gathered from original sources—from rare documents, letters, manuscripts, monographs, etc.—and the idea of a critical and realistic presentation of facts and causes has been admirably carried out, making a readable and reference work of a permanent value.

Volume One is devoted to the colonial period—from prehistoric man and Indian occupancy to the rumbles of the Revolution—a magnificent story of royal government and colony life.

Volume Two embraces the Revolutionary period—from Governor Franklin to the close of the 18th century. This is rich in Washingtonia.

Volume Three covers the first half of the 19th century—records of political parties, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, canals, railroads, manufacturing, banking, etc.

Volume Four embraces the period from the "underground railroad," through the Civil War and reconstruction, to the opening of the 20th century, with an exhaustive account of State politics.

A double column, analytical index of 50 pages, and indexes to chapters and illustrations, render the whole easily accessible. Leary's Catalog, 1906.

2972. LEONARD, DANIEL. Massachusettensis. (Boston: 1779.) 8vo, pp. 118.

"These political essays, in the form of seventeen letters, first appeared anonymously in the Boston newspapers. They were then supposed to be from the pen of Jonathan Sewell, Attorney-General of the Province of Massachusetts. They took the side of the government against the colonies, and are written with great ingenuity. Tudor, in his 'Life of Otis,' chap. 29, characterizes them as 'The most able papers on the Government side of the dispute.' John Adams wrote, 'On my return from Congress in November, 1774, I found the Massachusetts Gazette teeming with political speculation and Massachusettensis shining like to the moon among the lesser stars. I instantly knew him to be my friend Sewall, and was told he excited great exultation among the Tories, and many gloomy apprehensions among the Whigs.' Adams wrote a series of articles in reply under the signature of 'Novenglus.' Trumbull in his 'McFingal,' paid his respects to the author without gloves, as one who

"'Scrawled every moment he could spare
From cards, and barber, and the fair.'" Sabin.

"Notwithstanding this positive statement it is now ascertained that these letters were written by Daniel Leonard of Taunton." Menzies.

2981. LEVERMORE, CHARLES H. The Republic of New Haven. A history of Municipal Evolution. Baltimore: 1886. 8vo, pp. 342.

This is an important and learned study of the history and institutions of the town and colony of New Haven from its settlement to the present time. The work is done in a thorough and scholarly manner, and is based throughout on a study of the original records of the town, colony, and city of New Haven, the greater number of which are still in manuscript. The most valuable portion of the work is that which deals with the history of New Haven after its union with Connecticut.

2987a. LEWIS, FREEMAN; VEECH, JAMES. The Monongahela of Old; or, History of Fayette County, Pennsylvania. Pittsburgh: 1860. 8vo, pp. 240.*

In an autograph letter Judge Veech thus writes: "The Monongahela of Old was intended to be issued under the dual authorship of Freeman Lewis and myself. Mr. Lewis and I paid a lithographer in Pittsburgh for 3,000 copies of several prints and maps, but the lithographer sold out and went to Germany. If they were printed they were all lost (except a single imperfect proof of each). The errors and imperfections led to the suppression of the publication. I believe a copy can be had. . . . I think they ask $1 for a copy to pay binding. It is imperfect and incomplete and has some errors, on account of which I suppressed its publication. But as several copies have got out, at the solicitation of friends, I have allowed it to go with all its imperfections."

No copies were sold without an order from Judge Veech on Stevenson, Foster & Co., of Ensworth. The book was never published and it has only 240 pages, the work ending in an incomplete sentence on page 240. The title and preface were never set up, but titles were struck off for such copies as were sold. Freeman Lewis was a surveyor in Fayette County, and James Veech was a judge, residing at Ensworth, Pa.

"The original edition, upon which all the members of the Expedition worked. Excepting in typography and paper, in which the London editions are far the best, this is the best edition. The Appendix and the life of Lewis by President Jefferson (in a letter to Paul Allen, Esquire) are not in the English editions." George's Sons Catalog.

"Best edition of this valuable work, which the Critical Review says, 'Exhibits not only some valuable geographical notices but very copious and amusing details respecting the manners, habits and diversions of the North American Tribes.' It is to-day the best work we have on the Countries described and its republication would be an acceptable service. Mr. Allen has paraded his name as the editor of this edition, when, in fact, the work was done by Mr. Nicholas Biddle from the material left by Captain Lewis, who in a fit of insanity committed suicide. See N. A. Rev., 1, 96." Sabin.

"This work was commenced by Capt. Lewis himself, who was on his route to Philadelphia to engage in its completion, when the derangement seized him, under the influence of which he committed suicide at St. Louis. It was then undertaken by Mr. Nicholas Biddle, who in conjunction with Capt. Clarke, arranged the numerous notes and copious diaries and journals kept by each of the principal explorers, and enlarged the skeleton of many incidents from the recollection of the survivor." Field.

The following edition was issued in 1904:

A reprint of the edition of 1814 to which all the members of the expedition contributed; with an account of the Louisiana Purchase by J. Bach McMaster and notes upon the Route. New York: A. S. Barnes & Co., 1904. 3 vols. 12mo. Trail Makers Ser., Nos. 3-5.

The last edition was issued in 1904-05, as follows: "Original Journals of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, 1804-6. Printed from the original manuscripts in the Library of the American Philosophical Society, together with manuscript material of Lewis and Clark from other sources, including Note-books, Letters, Maps, &c., and the Journals of Charles Floyd and Joseph Whitehouse. Now for the first time published in full and exactly as written. With facsimiles, maps, plans, views, portraits, and a bibliography. Edited, with full introduction, elaborate notes and exhaustive index, by Reuben Gold Thwaites. 8 vols. New York: Dodd, Mead & Co., 1904-5.*

The now famous expedition of Meriwether Lewis and William Clark was sent out by President Jefferson to explore the Louisiana territory just after its purchase from France. The members of the party were the first white men to cross the continent through what is now United States territory. They started from the mouth of the Missouri in May, 1804, passed the following winter at Fort Mandan in what is now North Dakota, traced the course of the upper Missouri in the following summer, and crossing the Rockies, followed the lower Columbia River to the Pacific, arriving there in November, 1805. They spent the following winter on the coast near the mouth of the Columbia and returned again to St. Louis, completing their journey in September, 1806. The explorers traveled in all a distance of almost 8,500 miles.

The captains were both charged by President Jefferson to keep detailed journals of the happenings of each day, and they explicitly followed his instructions on this point. Several of the other members of the party also kept diaries of the journey. The records of the two commanding officers, together with those written by a number of their subordinates, were edited for publication by Nicholas Biddle, of Philadelphia, whose Narrative of the expedition was published in 1814. The scientific material which was collected on the expedition was to have been prepared for publishing by Dr. Barton, of Philadelphia, but his death prevented his carrying out the work. In consequence only a very small part of this scientific data was ever published.

Biddle's Narrative has long been accepted by its readers as though it were the actual journals of the explorers. It has appeared in many editions, and has been translated into the German and Dutch languages. As a matter of fact, although the Narrative is phrased in the first person, Biddle's work is but an abbreviated paraphrase skillfully constructed, but very far removed from the original journals themselves as written by the explorers. It is particularly weak in the very small attention it pays to the abundant scientific records of the expedition. These latter are of very great value in the history of American science, for many of the plants and animals seen by the explorers were recorded by them for the first time, and their full notes in the fields of geography, ethnology and meteorology are of immense importance from every point of view. An indication of the amount of condensing of the original journals which Biddle made is found in the fact that his Narrative contained 372,000 words, while the present work contains almost a million and a quarter words.

Jefferson attempted to collect from the many hands into which they had strayed the numerous note-books and other material which had formed the records of the expedition for which as President he had stood sponsor. This was a vexatious task, lasting through several years, but in 1818, supposing that he had completed his quest, Jefferson deposited these manuscripts with the American Philosophical Society at Philadelphia. Strange to say they have lain there practically untouched and almost forgotten until the present time. Arrangements were finally entered into between the present publishers and the American Philosophical Society for the full and verbatim publication of the original journals, and the great work of preparing this large amount of material for the press, and of annotating the same, has been in progress for several years past under the constant supervision of the editor, Dr. Reuben Gold Thwaites.

The publishers have also secured a number of other extremely valuable and interesting documents which they are including in this work. Among them are the interesting and pathetic journal of Sergeant Charles Floyd who died when the expedition was near the present site of Sioux City; the very valuable and particularly interesting journal of Private Joseph Whitehouse, covering the outward trip from River Dubois to the Cascades of the Columbia; also five large manuscript note-books recently discovered in the possession of direct descendants of Captain Clark, containing important material written upon the expedition by him; also fifty large manuscript route maps made by the topographer of the party, Captain Clark, during the journey; also a considerable mass of miscellaneous letters and other important data concerning this great enterprise. All of this additional material is included in the present work; a very large part of it having never before been published. Thus it will be seen that here is given to the public the complete record of the most important exploring expedition ever undertaken under the auspices of the United States government. Burrows Catalog.

3008. LEWIS, VIRGIL A. History of West Virginia from its Settlement to the Present Time. Philadelphia: Hubbard Bros., 1890. 8vo, pp. 744.

A "History of West Virginia," from 1732 to the present time, has been written by Prof. Virgil A. Lewis, of Mason City, Mason County, West Virginia. Only a limited number of copies will be published, and they will be sold by the author. "Prof. Lewis," says the Evening Post, "has carefully examined all authentic records of the State, the archives at Richmond, and those at county-seats—in all, nearly one hundred. The first part of the book treats of the first permanent settlement in the Shenandoah Valley, and comes down to the Revolutionary War. Part second covers the ground between the Revolution and the Civil War, and part third brings the narrative down to the present time." Publ. Weekly.
